

Teams Conversation for LIS 882 Project

[12/8/2023, 4:42 PM Ridley, Kalon

Thanks for getting those uploaded so quickly. I've finished mine but can't upload it until I'm back home and run it through Oxygen.

While checking both records, I noticed a few things:

For the Authority in Architecture type, should we include LCSH and AAT on our MAP, or are we sticking to just LCSH?

About events and LCSH authority, I thought events needed to be searchable in the database.

Then there were some formatting errors: WC3DTF dates should be in YYYY-MM-DD format, and street formats are "1234 Main St" according to the MAP.

I'm confused about RecordChangeDate being listed as 2023-12-16. Shouldn't it be the day we created our records? And for RecordIdentifier, are we sorting it based on teams' upload order or should they all be labeled 0001?

Subjects are handled differently and I think both are technically right. Morgan goes for one container subject element with multiple topics under them, while Hannah uses multiple subject containers. I did mine like Hannah's. Also, what are your thoughts on using controlled vocabularies for general subjects? It's not on the MAP, and I'm wondering how it might affect our records.

[12/8/2023, 10:43 PM] Hannah

Thanks for looking at our records, Kalon! Here are some thoughts, but I'm what you all think

For the Authority in Architecture type, should we include LCSH and AAT on our MAP, or are we sticking to just LCSH?

- LCSH worked best for me, but if other people found a good term in AAT we could include both as options and just make sure we code the correct one in the attribute.

About events and LCSH authority, I thought events needed to be searchable in the database.

- Hmm I guess this would depend on if we can find good LCSH terms, otherwise we could use a local authority term or make it free text like Morgan did. My building didn't have any events associated with it so I'm good with whatever!

Then there were some formatting errors: WC3DTF dates should be in YYYY-MM-DD format, and street formats are "1234 Main St" according to the MAP.

I'm confused about RecordChangeDate being listed as 2023-12-16. Shouldn't it be the day we created our records? And for RecordIdentifier, are we sorting it based on teams' upload order or should they all be labeled 0001?

- There's a recordCreationDate and recordChange date for any updates. We hard-coded it for the due date, but I'd be on board with changing it to the date we updated the record. We should probably use different identifiers since an archive would.

Subjects are handled differently and i think both are technically right. Morgan goes for one container subject element with multiple topics under them, while Hannah uses multiple subject containers. I did mine like Hannah's.

- I like using multiple subject container elements so that separate subjects aren't confused for subdivisions.

Also, what are your thoughts on using controlled vocabularies for general subjects? It's not on the MAP, and I'm wondering how it might affect our records.

- All of my general subjects were from LCSH so we could code that as an attribute. If y'all found subjects from AAT or another authority we could list them as options.